Double arson in Didsbury

Police confirm trailer and shed fires intentional

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Didsbury RCMP are saying arson was the cause of a fire that gutted a trailer, and a shed belonging to another residence at the Didsbury Mobile Home Park Sept. 16.

A female from Didsbury was passing the trailer when she noticed smoke and reported it to the authorities at approximately 9:30 p.m.

Police say when emergency response officials arrived on scene, the trailer was fully engulfed.

The RCMP confirm that nobody was inside the burning trailer, and that it had been vacant for weeks prior to the fire.

Supervising officer Cst. Robert Newton said approximately 30 minutes after the Didsbury volunteer fire department put out the trailer fire, a second blaze was lit at a utility shed on a property adjacent to the initial fire. "The two fires are believed to be related," said Newton.

After the fire officials left, shed owner Mark Toner said he went to bed, only to receive word from his neighbour that his shed was now on fire.

Toner says two days after the fire to his shed, his lawnmower was stolen from what was left of the burnt structure.

"It takes away the comfort level of being in your own home," said Toner.

"Especially when after that happens someone starts stealing from you."

Material samples from the trailer fire are being tested for accelerants.

The RCMP along with fire officials are continuing a joint investigation into the arson.

Presently, investigators have no witnesses to either arson.

No further details have been released.

Police are asking anyone with information on the fires to contact them at 335-3382.

P.O box lineup lengthens in Didsbury

New residents to wait eight months

BY JOSH SKAPIN

Didsbury Review

Over 140 people fill a list waiting for post office (P.O) boxes in Didsbury.

The wait for Didsbury residents trying to leave the general delivery system is approximately six to eight months long, according to Teresa Williams, a spokesperson with Canada Post.

She says, regarding any potential for relieving the congestion with a new building, an analysis has not been done on whether or not the Didsbury structure needs to be replaced.

"They'll have to do a full-fledged analysis to determine, can it be expanded, or can we do something else on the property?" she said.

"We do recognize that there is a concern in Didsbury."

Williams says there is a similar problem in other central Alberta towns.

"It's bittersweet. The growth is good for Alberta, but at the same time it has other implications and other concerns."

Currently, general delivery recipients will need to continue to wait their turn.

Lyle Schulz is a Didsbury resident who is happy to get off the waiting list.

He recently received a P.O box after applying for one when he and his family moved to Didsbury seven months ago.

Changing his address to general delivery for the receipt of bills and personal mail took approximately seven months, he said.

"By the time we finally got our address changed to general delivery, then we got a box and had to do that all over again."

And when he forgot to provide his new address with someone, mail was sent back.

"One of my paycheques got sent back, because it was sent to general delivery and we were at the point where we weren't with general delivery anymore," he said.

Also an inconvenience for general delivery mail participants is how uneasy it is to get mail, said Schulz.

"You have to wait in a line with other people waiting for their general delivery mail, as well as waiting in line for people who want to send parcels, people who want to send stamps, people who want to do anything at the counter."

Williams says Canada Post is looking at options for Didsbury residents to pursue.

"We would be open to any suggestions that our customers may have in the area," said Williams.

"In the meantime we need to look at some measures that we may be able to take to help resolve some of these issues."

DAILY DELIVERY - Baylee Black, 3, locks her mother's post office box after collecting the day's mail. New residents in Didsbury are having to wait up to a year before getting their own post office box.

Alberta has changed greatly in the past 10 years having come from a jurisdiction burdened by 22.9 Billion dollars in debt; to an economic power house and the only debt free jurisdiction in North America. This took a lot of determination, leadership and resolve to accomplish and I am honored and proud to have been part of that team.

We still have some challenges in managing the rapid growth that comes with a hot economy but; without the burden of debt this challenge will be more manageable than the previous one of eliminating our debt.

I look forward to taking on this challenge and am seeking your support for the P.C. nomination. This will take place at Olds Legion October 26 between 4-9 pm. Advance polls are at Three Hills Best Western Hotel and Water Valley Community Hall on October 13 between 9am, and 1pm.

I feel I have the energy, desire and experience and drive to help solve the current issues government is facing and would like to highlight some of my past and recent achievements.

Past Achievements as MLA

- Health- Negotiated establishment of Dialysis service in Olds so people could access this service without having to drive to Calgary 2-3 times per week.
- Education- Provided funding for the modernization or construction of 8 schools in the past 10 years. Including CLC in Olds.
- Transportation- Re-built and Paved Highway 2A Carstairs to Olds, 806 Acme to Linden, Repaved 580 Carstairs to Cremona and Water Valley Access, 582 East of Didsbury.
- Fiscal Responsibility- Part of the team that met the challenge of paying off the provincial debt by 2005; a major highlight in the province's history and unprecedented anywhere on the continent.
- Served on Standing Policy Committee of Agriculture and Rural Development
- Served on Standing Policy Committee of Finance and Intergovernmental Affairs
- Served on Private Bills Committee
- Served 8 years as chair of the Agriculture Committee on the Pacific North West Economic Region dealing in International Trade and Cross Border Transportation and animal health issues such as Avian Flu and BSE

Currently:

- I have been elected by all members of the Legislative Assembly to the position of Deputy Speaker and Chair of Committees.
- Appointed as Chair of Committees as well as appointed to the chair of the Standing Committee on Community Services which is reviewing Bill 31 - The Mental Health Act and Bill 41 Health Professions Act.
- I serve on the Standing Committee on Government Services currently review Bill 1 the Lobbyist Act and Bill 2 The Conflict of Interest Act.
- Cabinet Policy Committee of Government Services- member
- Tabling a private member bill in the Legislature in November- Protecting the rights of free hold natural gas in Coal lease owners. I continue to advocate for surface rights compensation review including annual compensation for all transmission lines both above and below the ground.
- Transportation dollars- I have lobbied for more dollars for transportation which has resulted in a number of projects going forward for 2008 including 791, 766, 806 Acme South and Highway 9, and continue to work toward funding for passing lanes on Highway 22.

Looking Forward:

- I have been involved in agriculture my whole life. I have always been a strong advocate for Agriculture and continue to lobby for a stabilization program for both the cattle and hog industry. In addition I feel there needs to be a simplified user friendly CAIS program.
- Education has been and remains a high priority for me as our future depends on a highly educated society. I believe to continue to attract and retain good, young, new teachers to the profession we need to resolve the unfunded pension liability. I believe a window of opportunity to do so now exists. This will require a collaborative approach by government and the ATA. I have developed a good working relationship with teachers in our constituency and believe I can play a supportive role in finding that resolution.
- The current level of funding increases in Health are not sustainable and we need to look at alternatives including individuals taking more responsibility for their well being. This would include safer driving habits, and adopting healthier lifestyles to reduce costs.
- As we plan for our future I support Premier Stelmach's approval of saving 1/3 of any unbudgeted surpluses and spending 1/3 on capital and 1/3 on our maintenance deficit and manage future and continuing growth. Our province's economy is performing well thanks to the policies put in place by your government and supported by you the public.
- I am proud of our past accomplishments and equally proud of what we have accomplished recently under the leadership of Premier Ed Stelmach. I whole heartedly support our leader; he is decisive and determined and will be a great Premier.

On October 26, I ask for your support to continue to make Alberta the very best we can be.
EVERY VOTE COUNTS, PLEASE VOTE FOR RICHARD MARZ AS YOUR PC NOMINEE.

Former Didsbury principal new area trustee

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

In the late 1950s, western Canada suffered from a shortage of teachers and across the Atlantic ocean a 21-year-old was taking notice.

Already honing his craft at a school in his native England, Ian Taylor was far from ready to plant roots.

At the time, educational publications were packed with advertisements intended to lure foreign teachers to the west. The first one Taylor spotted said in bold letters, "If you can't teach in the land of the moose - no weaklings need apply."

Taylor showed it to the headmaster at the school in which he was teaching, who quickly dismissed it as sensational advertising.

But a short while later Taylor found a more appropriate ad that led him to Saskatchewan, followed by a stop in High Prairie before landing in Carstairs.

Taylor was elected by acclamation as trustee for Didsbury wards with Chinook's Edge School Division during the 2007 municipal election nomination day Sept. 17.

This is Taylor's third term as a trustee, who ended a two-term run as Carstairs trustee in 1998.

At the time, voting boundaries were unconventional and one of the last acts committed by Taylor as trustee was heading a committee that helped revamp the boundaries to those recognized by rural school buses.

After the change was implemented, Taylor's area overlapped with Didsbury whose trustee was Roy Brassard.

Brassard was trustee for Didsbury for nine years, before being deemed ineligible to hold the position when the Red Deer Catholic School Board extended to Didsbury in 2006.

Brassard is a practicing Catholic, which under the Alberta School Act, restricts him from holding a trustee position for a public school board in an area where a Catholic school board is active.

Since that point, Brassard has entered a complaint with the Human Rights Commission of Alberta.

Taylor, who calls himself a friend of Brassard's, mainly after spending time together carpooling to Innisfail for board meetings, says he applauds the stand he's taken in the case.

"I thought he took a common sense approach," said Taylor.

"My view is to look beyond the single issue of him being ineligible as a catholic. There just seems to be a bigger issue here."

Taylor's time in Carstairs started as an Industrial Education Teacher, before taking a seat as vice-principal in 1975.

Ian Taylor

new life in a new country was intimidating.

"It has always given me admiration for people who have immigrated from other countries and didn't know how to speak English," he said.

But coming to Canada, where many people have British ancestry made for an easier transition, he said.

His intention was to stay for a few years and explore a part of the world he had never seen before establishing his professional life in England.

"We just wanted to come and do something different," he said.

"We never really had any intention of immigrating."

"I really fell in love with the country and the people."

These days, Taylor is enjoying a simpler life on his acreage near Didsbury.

But his days will get busier with the responsibilities as trustee. Taylor says his interest in education and how dollars are being spent for the well-being of students has never faded, and he credits Brassard for his devotion to the position.

"I think Roy has done an outstanding job as trustee," he said.

"I appreciate his friendship," he said.

"I have nothing but respect for him and his motivation to do the very best for the students in our division."

Commentary Make way for road wildlife

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Moose must be the most intimidating animals I have ever seen. Especially when they surprise you by stepping out on to a road late at night.

While chugging along to my destination, music playing, and my mind filled with story ideas for the paper, if not for my reliable breaks - a moose would have come through my windshield.

And the scary thing is, it happens so quickly.

You don't see lowered arms like at a busy railroad, protecting you from being pulverized.

Nor will a troop of children in bright orange vests and small red stop signs give the moose a safe opportunity to cross.

Moose are on their own schedule, and if loitering on a dark farm road is their preferred activity of the evening, that's what they'll do.

Whose going to tell him to get out of the way?

While slamming fender into four-legged is unpleasant in almost any circumstance, the idea of hitting a moose, which is not unlike a kicking, flailing brick wall, would leave a much more gravely result.

As I screeched to a halt, inches from the docile behemoth, my mouth filled with my thumping heart, I sat in awe.

I had seen moose on television, and while knowing they were large animals, I had the silly misconception that they would be slightly bigger than a deer.

Both in height and mass, the deer I often see skip across the road don't hold a candle to the towering animal with a rack that nearly reached the width of the road it stood on.

Hearing that moose have a short temper, I was careful not to disturb it.

Eventually, after looking down at my car and seeming more unimpressed than anything, it snorted and sauntered off the road.

Many people forget about wildlife that call the countryside near Didsbury home. That's apparent with the lengthy list of animal - specifically deer versus vehicle incidents in the local police report.

While I mentioned my meeting with a moose, deer crashes can be just as devastating.

With deer it's important to note that they move in groups. Seeing one blaze across the pavement unscathed, may mean its friends and family aren't far behind.

It's sometimes scary to think as you're pushing 100 km/h, that with out hint or preview, something may try and cross. Moose and other antlered animals don't understand the concept of waiting at a crosswalk.

As we fly down the roads, the animals we share the area with have to be a consideration, both for their safety and yours.

Sure, mistakenly clipping a rabbit may be a blip on the radar screen of your day, but if you ever meet the moose I met, staying conscious of road activity may save you a trip to the insurance company and more importantly a trip to the emergency room.

Letter to the editor Taxi needed for Didsbury?

Dear Editor:

I have just finished reading the Carstairs Courier and the article on the frustrating difficulties Nathan Grossklaus has getting around town with his wheelchair.

I am a senior in Didsbury living at Aspen Lodge. I can no longer drive my car and have to rely on a scooter which is beautiful in the summer months. However, even then one can not enter all the business places. Fortunately, even though I have a disability I can still hobble into most places on my cane. A more serious problem arises when the weather is inclement, and it is most of the winter months. I live at Aspen Lodge and it is not always easy to find transportation, especially now that the bus has reduced its service. A taxi service would be ideal. I know this has been tried and for one reason or another it has not been successful. Therefore, could the town not consider augmenting a taxi service? Not only would this be available to visit stores or other services in town but on occasion drive a passenger to Olds or Carstairs on passenger's request.

Should we older people just retire to our homes and wait for the grim reaper? Hope the town will give this some serious thought.

A now 15-year resident,

Virgil F. Earle

Commentary Retail prices need parity

BY KIM DICK

As the Canadian dollar hit parity with American currency last week, much discussion took place surrounding the retail market place - and how Canadian consumers are getting gouged at the cash register.

Reports of Canadians flooding the US border to get more for their money - shopping for cars, shoes, books and other items where there is a disparity on suggested retail prices - has been on the forefront of the news agenda since last week.

Book and magazine retailer may feel the wrath of angry bookworms all over the nation as consumers ponder the high cost of identical items for sale in both Canada and the U.S.

Because the price is imprinted on the covers of both books and magazines it is hard for the general consumer not to notice the difference in cost - and I can tell you it makes a difference to me.

Every magazine, card, book and stationary purchase can add up.

As a writer and a rabid consumer of books and words I wonder how much money I could save if the Canadian prices were more reasonably stacked against the American prices.

Just this afternoon I purchased a wedding card for a friend of mine who is tying the knot this week and paid a whole $1.10 extra than a typical US customer.

Recently, I have also put many magazine and books down due to the disparity in dollar amounts printed on the cover.

One magazine in particular that was of interest to me, was priced $15.99 in Canadian funds, an amount I gawked at, shook my head and set back on the shelf stand.

I wonder how many other consumers are making the same decision to keep their money in their pockets and out of the hands of retailers.

I think it is high time that retailers start evening the playing field for Canadian consumers, a move that may keep the bucks from flowing fast south of the border.

A popular Calgary morning show on Q 107 had many angry consumers phoning in to voice their opinion on the gap in prices between Canadian consumers and consumers south of the 49th parallel.

What was the response?

Canadians want their money's worth in the marketplace.

Not surprising to the gal that paid $5.08 for a card that is worth $3.69 down south.

Smarten up retailers, we Canadians are smarter than you think - eh.

Mayor candidates discuss Didsbury vision

Doctor shortage a worry

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Over the next three weeks, Brian Wittal and incumbent Dorothy Moore will be campaigning in a race to be elected Didsbury mayor in the 2007 municipal election.

Wittal, who served as Deputy Mayor over the past term says he feels it's time for change and says under his leadership council will build better relationships with residents, administration, the Chamber of Commerce, other municipal councils in Mountain View County, Provincial Ministers, MLAs and the Calgary Health Region.

"A new face with new ideas can and will bring new opportunities to our town," he said.

"Regional prosperity will be key to sustaining Didsbury's future growth and success.

We need to continue to build better relationships with the councils in the region to ensure we explore all options for inter-municipal cooperation," said Wittal.

"I have received a lot of support from various councillor's from within the region to run for mayor of Didsbury because they say it is time for new leadership to help take relations to a new level."

Prior to being elected mayor in the previous municipal election three years ago, Moore sold real estate for about 15 years, where she says she was able to learn what Didsbury residents liked and didn't like in town. Moore obtained her Master of Business administration degree in 1997, studying Didsbury's financial situation compared to similar sized towns.

"Didsbury's future did not compare well," said Moore. "Our debt levels were extremely high, and our high costs did not allow enough for responsible long-term maintenance of our infrastructure.

I knew what other towns had done, and I wanted Didsbury to have a prosperous future. I knew I could help Didsburians realize their hopes for the town. I need one more term to accomplish the structure for long-term quality growth and prosperity for Didsbury."

Moore says she has laid the foundation for a bright future for Didsbury.

Didsbury's debt servicing costs took 52% less of the revenue in 2006 than they did in 2001 and cash reserves are 6.5 times the 2001 levels, said Moore.

"All of our financial indicators show Didsbury's progress," she said.

"Six years of working with the county and neighbouring towns have brought together a new partnership aimed toward prosperity for all residents."

Moore says the proposed annexation, which is the first Didsbury has seen in over 40 years, was an important move for the current council.

"Didsbury can now say that it has a lot to offer prospective residents and businesses. We already have exciting proposals being planned for development of all types of property- residential, commercial and industrial. I have not finished what I started yet," she said.

Brian Wittal

Wittal also sees the importance of the annexation proposal saying he wishes it could have come earlier.

"I would have liked to have seen annexation happen sooner which would have allowed the town to take advantage of missed opportunities over the past two years," he said.

Another issue both mayor hopefuls have on their minds is the shortage of doctors in town.

Wittal says, if elected he will help to recruit three or four new doctors to Didsbury to expand the medical services provided in town.

"We need to work better with the Calgary Health Region to attract and retain doctors and staff to Didsbury to enhance the overall medical services that can be provided at the hospital for the benefit of the entire region," he said.

Moore is optimistic about the town adding more doctors, saying the annexation should play a positive role.

"I believe that we will be successful in our efforts to recruit and retain doctors. We have created a better environment for businesses to grow and prosper."

Moore says she needs one more term to finish the work she started.

"I believe that I have listened to what Didsburians hoped for and have done my best to build a bright future for Didsbury. I am not quite finished the job. I ask that I be allowed to put the rest of the policies and plans in place to ensure that Didsbury is second to none in Alberta," she said. "My perspective has been, and will continue to be 'Taxpayers First.' I promise to represent Didsbury taxpayers to the best of my ability at council, to administration, to the region, to the province and to the federal government."

Wittal has roots in Didsbury and says he is committed to the community.

"This is our home and I want to help Didsbury reach its full potential," he said.

"I want to ensure the growth in Didsbury is managed properly to ensure we maintain the small-town feel and historical atmosphere that Didsburians cherish.

I will continue to work hard to attract doctors to Didsbury to bring a greater level of health services to our community.

I will work to bring new commercial business to our town to help build a greater economic base for the future."

Moore and Wittal will participate in an all-candidates forum hosted by the Didsbury Chamber of Commerce Oct. 3.

Incumbent Councillors: Bob Davidson, Gayle Veno, and Ernie Ryckman, joined by newcomers Gail Nowlan, Jason Brander, and Rick Mousseau were elected by acclamation on nomination day Sept. 17.

DRAG-ON HIM DOWN - Didsbury Dragons pull down Carstairs Tigers' Dominik Kaiser in the first quarter, Saturday. Dragons bested Tigers 31-12.

Carla Victor/Didsbury Review

Dragons open with a bang

Replacement quarterback lethal in win

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Didsbury Dragons coach Mark Lefebvre knows it's nice to have options.

With the absence of starting pivot Jonathan Lefebvre, Brett Stewart took the reins in the team's 31-12 win over the Carstairs Tigers during Didsbury's home opener Sept. 25.

"He did a fabulous job," said Mark of his replacement quarterback, who normally plays as a starting receiver.

While Stewart wasn't throwing deep passes, his precision was what made him dangerous.

"(Stewart) didn't want to play quarterback, he doesn't want to play quarterback," Mark chuckled. "But he does it because we need him in certain situations."

With Stewart being moved out of position, the receiving core was revamped with a few new faces catching balls.

Mark said he liked his team's balanced attack, with Landon Poffenroth and James Lefebvre both having what Mark called, "their best games of the season."

Stewart also led the team in touchdowns, bolting through the end zone on two occasions.

"(Stewart) did a fabulous job"

MARK LEFEBVRE
Dragons coach

Other touchdowns were registered by receivers Dustin Moreau, and Eric Timmins.

This game marked the debut of the Tigers' new white and maroon jerseys. Coach Kevin Bullock said the team looked sharp, but thought his team was a bit nervous starting the match.

But Bullock says the team came together in the second half, where they completed nine straight first down plays.

"It was unbelievable," said Bullock, who praised his defensive corps for their shut-down ability.

"Our defence led our team," he said. "They really started things for us by doing their job on the field."

One of the more dazzling plays was executed by Tigers' Charley Jeske in the second half. Jeske snagged the ball on a punt, and exploded for approximately 80 yards to register the touchdown.

"His calves were pretty tight after that run" laughed Bullock. "It was something."

The previous game, the Tigers revealed their ability to throw the ball and gain yardage doing it. Mark said he made a conscious effort to make sure the Didsbury squad wasn't going to let that happen again.

"We established a little bit of zone coverage on our defence and we were able to limit their passing game" he said.

Mark called it Didsbury's best team effort of the early campaign.

Didsbury and Carstairs are the only two nine-man teams in the province. Organizers for both teams are attempting to expand the league by promoting the game in neighbouring towns.

Didsbury won the first two games of the season.

The two teams lock horns again in Carstairs Sept. 29.

With Carstairs now using their official jerseys, they consider the match their official home opener.

"This is a big game for us," said Bullock.

"We're getting closer and closer to Didsbury."

Didsbury Gymnastics Club gearing up for busy season

Following their registration night Sept 12th the Didsbury Gymnastics Club has close to 50 gymnasts registered and are very pleased with the turn out. More than 25% of the group will be members of the new Parent and Tot program being offered this year - there were a lot of inquiries on a group for children under 5 so they decided to advertise for it and the huge response definitely proves the need and interest in the community. Some new and returning faces complete the volunteer executive this year - President/Media Relations: Gail Nowlan, Vice President: Chantrel

Jelinek, Treasurer: Rhonda Stubberfield, Fundraising Coordinator: Lisa Snyder, Equipment Coordinator: Diana Coney, Secretary: Nadine Whidden and Event Coordinator: Josee Knezevich. Returning for her second season with the Didsbury Gymnastics Club is the NCCP Level 2 Coaching Director Diana Boettcher. Classes start Monday, October 1st at 4:15 at Ross Ford Gym. They are taking registrations for this season. If you are interested in learning more about the club, helping out with coaching or the board please call Gail Nowlan at 335-3863.

GRIZZLYS ACTION - Crusaders goalie Vincenzo Marozzi stops Grizzlys' Shadov Stoodley shot on net during the third period. Grizzlys did manage to get one more goal securing an 6-5 overtime win against Sherwood Park. Olds went on to win again the next night in more home action against the Calgary Royals 5-3.

Didsbury Farmers' Market struggles continue

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Before the season began there was worry over the vitality of the Didsbury Farmers' Market, and now that the season's over - little has changed.

Jean Flett, a director with the Didsbury Ag Society and Interim Coordinator of the farmers' market, said the longtime local tradition needs a better turnout.

"We desperately need more vendors," she said.

"It's hard to say at this point if we will be having a farmers' market next year.

"If we can get the clientele and the vendors we can probably go ahead."

While the last two installments of the season were perhaps the strongest, Flett estimates an average vendor count of less than 10 per night over the course of the season. An ideal market would have between 15 and 20 vendors per market, she added.

"The more vendors, the more people will come," she said.

"The bigger the better."

Both Flett and regular farmers' market coordinator Laura Krebs have talked to potential vendors about setting up shop in Didsbury.

"It's important to know what people want to buy," she said.

"If (vendors) come two or three weeks and there isn't a purchase, they don't come back."

Along with the poor showing by vendors are small crowds of customers.

From members of the public she's talked to about the Farmers' Market, Flett says she has heard people tell her they don't know where it's being held, or that they don't know where the curling rink is.

"Maybe we need better signage, I don't know," she said.

Flett says farmers' market coordinators need to commit to having another season in Didsbury by April 2008.

Presently, organizers are reviewing options and ideas and will be addressing concerns in an upcoming meeting.

"I don't know if our venue - we've talked about moving outside to be more visible downtown, but then weather's a factor.

"We've been tossing a lot of ideas around," she said.

One possibility will be a shorter season, says Flett.

This year's Farmers' Market started in May and ended last week.

"There isn't produce until near the end of June, especially this year with the short growing season."

The Ag Society has committed to its annual Christmas market Nov. 17 in the multi-purpose room from 10:00 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Christmas baking and crafts, will be among the products available at the sale.

PIE SALES - Wanda Myers packages a pie for sale at the Didsbury Farmers Market. The struggling market finished for the season, and organizers are looking at ways to improve it for next year.

Rural women's outreach program mobilizes city services

BY KIM DICK
MVG Staff

A women's rural outreach program is being offered by Central Alberta agencies to offer support to women and families dealing with domestic violence.

The new program, which is a joint project from Central Alberta Women's Emergency Shelter (CAWES) and Central Alberta Women's Outreach Society (CAWOS), will be an extension of services and resources offered for rural women in many Alberta communities.

"What we would like to do, because so often people are faced with certain barriers to get to Red Deer for services, is remove some of those barriers and one of the ways we are going to be doing that is by coming to the community to offer outreach support," said Barb Barber, executive director of CAWOS. "We are looking at dealing with a combination of a few things, supporting women and their families experiencing domestic violence and/or identifying their needs and concerns...doing some crisis intervention, supporting individuals who have housing related issues or basic needs concerns and supporting individuals that may have some legal concerns."

Barber says the outreach program will be a mobile version of the service they provide in Red Deer transported into individual communities.

Rural outreach programs will be held in the following communities: Innisfail, Olds, Sundre, Sylvan Lake, Elnora, Penhold and Bowden.

In our region outreach dates and times are as follows: Innisfail Neighborhood Place, Oct. 9 and Nov. 6 from 1 - 4 p.m., Olds Neighborhood Place, Sept. 25, Oct. 23 and Nov. 20 from 9 a.m. to noon, Greenwood Neighborhood Place in Sundre, Sept. 25, Oct. 23 and Nov. 20 from 1 to 4 p.m. and Bowden Neighborhood Place, Sept. 27, Oct. 25 and Nov. 22 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Residents from communities in our region who are not provided the mobile services are invited to participate in any of the town programs.

"This program will be facilitated in a confidential, non-judgmental manner," said Barber. "Living in a rural community has some issues...transportation issues is one of the issues women face so if we can flip that around and make it accessible to people then I think it will be easier to access these services."

Barber says the program will provide practical support to individuals residing in the rural communities that are experiencing barriers to accessing services due to isolation, lack of transportation to services in larger centres, housing crises and domestic violence issues.

"What we are trying to do is work really closely with the services that are already in the communities now and see one, what can we do to support those services and two, what can we do to fill in some of the gaps," said Barber. "We are definitely not looking at replacing what is there because I think the communities are doing a great job in offering what they can, but we are just hoping to come in and be able to help them out."

The program is expected to continue in the future.

For more information, contact your community Neighborhood Place or call CAWOS at 1-866-347-2480 or CAWES at 1-888-346-5643.

CORRECTION

On the front page of the Sept. 18 edition of the Didsbury Review, the headline should have read Six elected by acclamation.

Also, the incumbent councillors should have been listed Bob Davidson, Gayle Veno, and Ernie Ryckman, joined by newcomers Gail Nowlan, Jason Brander, and Rick Mousseau.

We apologize for any confusion the errors may have caused.

160. Thank You

Thank You

Heartfelt thank you from the Ron Milne family goes out to all family, neighbours and friends for their care, kindness and prayers at Dad's passing. For the cards, flowers and gifts that mean so much to us. A special thank you to Dr. Milliken and all the staff of the Olds Hospital and Extended Care for the loving care shown to Dad during his stay there. He could never say enough good things about you. To Herb, thanks for your lifelong friendship, the laughs and good times you and Dad shared together. Also, a thank you to the staff at St. Mary's in Trochu for the care they gave Dad the few days that he was with them. Thank you to Rev. Nancy Nourse and Mrs. Doreen McEwen for the moving and inspirational farewell. To the Zion Church, thank you. To Duncan Milne for putting our thoughts and memories into words, and to Glenda Milne for the beautiful and fitting solo. To Margaret, Lacey, Uncle Tim, the Widner family and the Morrison family for the wonderful tributes that made us laugh and made us cry as we all need to do at this time. To Thom for finding the old country songs that Grandpa loved. Thank you to Miles Widmer, Pat Thorson, Chad Brander, Wayne Coats, Courtney Widmer and George Morrison for being pallbearers. We would like to thank Gord at Victoria's Flowers for such a fitting spray for Dad. There are not many arrangements that could make people cry - but you did it. To Bruce MacArthur and the staff at Mountain View Funeral Chapels, thank you for your guidance, compassion and being there for us at this sad time.

Christine Milne and family
